

Measuring Outcomes

Evaluating our programs is extremely important to our mission at the Kansas Learning Center for Health. Ongoing assessment ensures we are delivering high quality programs to the students in Kansas. Using pre- and post- tests with students at the center, and teacher evaluations help us quantify the impact we're making.

During the 2006-2007 school year, students demonstrated considerable knowledge gain in outcomes-based tests that were performed in three program topic areas.

Teachers at the Learning Center play an important role in shaping the programs and services delivered to Kansas students. Following each program, each teacher is asked to provide feedback on program content, instructor knowledge, curriculum requirements, and student involvement. More than 93% of teachers rated our programs "Excellent."

On a scale of 0 to 5, teachers gave the Learning Center's programming an overall approval score of 4.68!
